Ven. Lama Kelsang La addressing on Moral and Ethics to the students of Alice Project Schools

The project started with a mutual understanding and agreement between the Alice Project and the Office of the Dalai Lama. It was indeed a brain child of the campaign of HH for Universal Ethics learning in the modern education system based on secular means.

Several programmes are running under the Ethical Project which includes a retreat programme for the students, and a sub-project named Ecology Project which aims at teaching the students to appreciate and care for nature through means of plantation and growing of different plants, trees and flowers in the garden. The goal was to develop the mindset of children and to make them emotionally sound along with caring for nature; plants and animals as well.
